Read Across America relies on more than 50 national partners to help deliver the joy of reading to millions of students from coast to coast. Use the resources below to receive the books featured in this calendar and additional resources for your school library and/or classroom.

Reading Is Fundamental's Digital Resources for Featured Books

Reading Is Fundamental, the nation’s leading champion for children’s literacy for more than 50 years, is offering digital resources for the books listed in this calendar, as well as additional recommendations on diverse books on its Literacy Central. Visit rif.org/NEA for more details and to download these resources.

NEA Foundation and First Book Team Up for Diversity

The NEA Foundation and First Book have teamed up to bring more diverse authors, characters, and books to students. The NEA Foundation Special Edition Collection features four books, each by an author of color, available at reduced prices on First Book Marketplace. Each book includes a Diversity & Inclusion Reading Guide to assist educators in surfacing the social and emotional learning elements of the books. Looking for More Titles Your Students Will Love?

Visit the NEA page on the First Book Marketplace (https://www.fbmarketplace.org/read-across-america) to find dozens of diverse, high quality titles that will help your kids see themselves and their experiences in the books they read.

First Book is transforming the lives of children in need and elevating the quality of education by making new, high-quality books and educational resources available on an ongoing basis. Eligible educators, librarians, program leaders, and others serving children in need can sign up at firstbook.org/register.
