FAQ’S FOR THE STUDENT-CENTERED ADVOCACY GRANT APPLICATION PROCESS

1) What is student-centered advocacy?
Student-centered advocacy is a model of unionism that fuses organizing, collective bargaining, and other collective action with community engagement and social justice activism to enhance student learning and improve educator working conditions. Student-centered advocacy does not supplant our traditional advocacy roles. Rather, it augments these roles, building a culture and implementing practices that place the needs of students at the forefront of our cause.

2) Who can apply for this grant?
Local affiliates are eligible for the grant as are state affiliates, which can coordinate a student-centered advocacy project, providing targeted local associations with training, assistance, and resources necessary for the completion of the grant and successful implementation of the proposed program or activity. Affiliates that represent teachers, education support professionals, and higher education staff are encouraged to apply.

3) Is grant eligibility restricted to affiliates that collectively bargain or to projects directly related to a collective bargaining campaign?
No. While we are especially interested in funding proposals that seek to advance student-centered policies and practices through the bargaining process, affiliates that are willing and able to engage in student-centered practices for the purpose of influencing board policies that promote healthy and positive learning environments for students are also encouraged to apply.

4) Can a student-centered advocacy grant be combined with other grants, such as a community organizing grant?
Yes. We encourage affiliates to consider, for example, submitting a proposal to engage parents and minority communities as part of an overall advocacy and organizing plan to meet students’ needs. This grant cannot, however, be combined with a state media grant or with a ballot measure or legislative crisis grant.

5) Can a student-centered advocacy grant be used to support ESSA implementation?
Yes, we encourage affiliates to submit proposals focused on lifting up the educator voice provisions in ESSA. Proposals that are centered on lifting educator voices and developing strategies and campaigns that could include fighting for improved school quality, less testing and more learning, and ensuring school quality and student success.

6) What is the range of the potential grant awards?
The grant award range is up to $50,000.
7) Is the funding for one year only?
   Yes. Grant monies have only been budgeted for 2018-2019.

8) Are there examples of student centered advocacy programs and activities that might provide guidance to grant applicants?
   Yes. Specific examples of student-centered advocacy in practice can be found in the Real Places/Real Stories section of CBMA’s publication, The Road to Student Success: A Toolkit for Student-Centered Advocacy located on the Student-Centered Advocacy Grant page at www.nea.org/grants/63562.htm.

9) How is Bargaining for the Common Good related to Student-Centered Advocacy?
   Like Student-Centered Advocacy, Bargaining for the Common Good is an innovative community engagement strategy that looks beyond traditional bread and butter issues. NEA affiliates and other public sector unions use it to collectively bargain and organize members and local stakeholders around a set of demands that extend beyond the classroom to embrace broader community concerns. It addresses systemic inequities, targets new revenue sources to rebuild communities and adequately fund public services, and protects quality middle class public sector jobs. A Bargaining for the Common Good campaign is an appropriate activity for a student-centered advocacy grant.

10) Are other resources available that might provide guidance to grant applicants?
    Yes. CBMA staff is available to share resources and provide assistance to grant applicants.
